Morning Stan,

I'm wondering what the status is on the Varidesk issue?

As shown in the documents I sent to you earlier, when a customer orders a Varidesk unit (Pro 30,48, Plus, Etc.), the entire unit arrives to the end-user with a "made in China" sticker on it. That picture was from the unit we ordered. Their own customer service department clearly admits that the Varidesk is made in China and it considered it's country of origin and only TAA compliant part is the monitor arm accessory for those units. They also admit that they only have administrative offices in the USA and that the mfg. is done in China.

I'm sorry (b) (6)

That was an error. The company is based in Texas and the product is manufactured in China. Please let me know if you have any other questions.

I don't understand how this can still be allowed. Can you shed any light on this?
